DUPLICATE BRIDGE CLUB
Mrs. A. K. Holloway was high scorer at the Wednesday Duplicate Bridge Club which met April 12 with Mrs. Comer Boyett. There was a three-way tie for second with Mrs. J. M. Duffie, Mrs. Emmett Thompson, and Mrs. Thomas Hays sharing that position.
Club guests for the afternoon were Mrs. Harry Hawthorne and Mrs. Maxwell Simmons of Longview, Tex. Assorted snacks and coffee were served for refreshments.
LILAC CLUB, AUDUBON SOCIETY MEET
Dr. Herbert Rogers of the local Audubon Society was the special guest of the Lilac Garden Club on Wednesday, April 12 in the home of Mrs. Loyd Kinard. Dr. Rogers narrated a color film on Birds, which proved to be both informative and beautiful.
"Pride of Mobile" Azaleas were seen in the Kinard home, and two other guests at the meeting were Mrs. Danny Hamilton and Mrs. E. W. Copeland. After the program, the hostess served strawberry shortcake and coffee for refreshments.
The group went on a pilgrimage afterwards to the Sam Strong garden, the Danny Hamilton garden, and the newly landscaped Hempstead County Library.

BRIDGE CLUB MEETS
Mrs. Lloyd Spencer had roses in her home for the Tuesday Bridge Club which met with her on April 11. In addition to club members other guests were Mrs.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Walter Matthau, who won the Oscar playing a loud, abusive shyster in "The Fortune Cookie," sat quietly sipping his scotch at the Academy ball.

He was a hurt man. Every time a well-wisher patted him on the back, he winced in pain. Bruises were on his face, his chin was bandaged, and his left arm dangled helplessly. His wife fed him bites of the chicken supper.

He had fallen from a bicycle two nights before.
"It was a crazy thing," he ruminated. "I got a speed bike, and I can race it pretty fast. I figure I was hitting about 25 miles an hour when I hit a board in the street. There was nothing I could do."

He diagrammed the fracture with a ball-point pen on the Beverly Hilton tablecloth. It was "an impacted fracture of the radial head" at his wrist, and the pain was intense every time he moved his arm.

Matthau is accustomed to calamity. In the midst of shooting "The Fortune Cookie" he suffered a heart attack that suspended filming for months. When he returned, he was many pounds lighter and perceptibly more mellow.

"Some of the fight has gone out of me with age," he admitted. "But I was plenty tough when I was younger."

"Did you know that I once beat up on Rocky Graziano? He was 11 at the time, and I was 10. He picked a fight with me and I licked him. The next day he sent his gang around to beat me up. No, I don't think he sent them; I think they just did it as a favor to Rocky."

Matthau continued his battles on the streets of New York City, then in the Air Force, and finally in the jungles of Broadway and Hollywood. He was generally cast as the bawling, rude extrovert, and some said he continued the role in his own life.

His professional life started to change two years ago. His casting as the slob of a sports writer in "The Odd Couple" on Broadway finally made producers see him as starring material. Billy Wilder wrote "The Fortune Cookie" for him. Matthau's showier role permitted him to outshine Jack Lemmon, just as he had bested Art Carney in "The Odd Couple."

Owl's Wings

An owl's wings have fringed edges to muffle noise, enabling it to fly as silently as a shadow. An owl depends on sound rather than sight to help it catch prey.

Thomas, an excellent entertainer when he is singing and telling funny stories, generally presides over a handsome, bouncy variety show, but has a tendency to get sticky when he starts to sermonize.

NBC has signed country singer Jimmy Dean to carry on as host of the "Tonight Show" through April 21, and then will put Bob Newhart into the late evening driver's seat for a week.

Newhart, recently signed to an NBC contract, is considered to be the number one candidate to replace Carson on a permanent basis if Johnny and the network fail to resolve their contractual differences.

The current fuss between Carson and NBC is undoubtedly a cause for some elation at ABC since "The Joey Bishop Show" will have its premiere as "Tonight Show" competition on Monday night. Opening show guests will be Debbie Reynolds, Danny Thomas and — a late entry — Gov. Ronald Reagan.

ABC will broadcast the "Emmy" awards show on June 4 with Bishop playing host on the Hollywood end of the TV industry's big annual event. Johnny Carson was asked to hold down the New York end of the ceremonies, but refused. Now the honor goes to Hugh Downs.

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

WIVES SHOULD HATE THIS MAN HATER

Dear Helen: I seem to be drawn to married men, or perhaps they're drawn to me. The first one I loved me and left me, four years ago. I swore I'd never get involved with another married guy, but then this man said he was unhappy at home, and one thing led to another. I fell in love with him, but he left with our even saying good-bye.

Last year I met a fellow in a bar—you know those Friday night get-togethers where the girls meet the boys and have a lot of laughs. He wore a band on his finger and I said, "Oh no, not calamity. In the midst of shooting 'The Fortune Cookie' he suffered a heart attack that suspended filming for months. When he returned, he was many pounds lighter and perceptibly more mellow."

Again, he used me and left me, after hinting he would divorce his wife. Do you blame me for beginning to hate men?—BATTERED BY FATE.

Dear B By F.: I blame you more for making men's wives hate YOU!—H.

Dear Helen: I have a 22-year-old son, who was always a good boy, still is. He works hard at a dirty job, and then he fights with me every time I tell him to take a bath to get the dust and grime off. I can't keep his bedclothes clean and he doesn't even change his underwear without a fight.

He's spotless on the outside—that doesn't help my sheets and then in the Air Force, and finally in the jungles of Broadway and Hollywood. He was generally cast as the bawling, rude extrovert, and some said he continued the role in his own life.

His professional life started to change two years ago. His casting as the slob of a sports writer in "The Odd Couple" on Broadway finally made producers see him as starring material. Billy Wilder wrote "The Fortune Cookie" for him. Matthau's showier role permitted him to outshine Jack Lemmon, just as he had bested Art Carney in "The Odd Couple."

MOTHER OF A SLOB

Dear Mother: Men resent female bossing, even (especially) when it's needed. Leave your goaty son alone, let him sleep in dirty sheets and get the gate from his girl. He'll learn—the hard way—that cleanliness is next to the skin, or it doesn't count.—H.

YOUR HELPING HAND DEPARTMENT

Dear Helen: Would you please tell your readers that if they have old greeting cards or cancelled stamps they can put them to charitable use by sending them to Mrs. Gene C. Martin, Rt. 4, Box 232, Zanesville, Ohio, 43701.

She can use U.S. and foreign stamps, any kind of Christmas or other cards. They are used to help the missionaries. Thank you.—A FRIEND

Dear Helen: I met this man two years ago. He asked me to marry him, but he told me his mother was an invalid and he had to take care of her. He said he'd get things straightened out, so she would accept me, just have patience. He lives with her. Each time he comes to see me, things are "almost," straightened out. He writes to me, and calls, and visits me when he can, bringing lovely gifts, but I have never met his mother and this uncertainty is driving me nuts. Recently someone told me his mother has a slight heart condition, but is otherwise healthy as a horse—and stubborn as a mule. What are my chances?—WAITING

Dear Waiting: I'd say your chances for marriage are about par with LBJ and RFK becoming bosom buddies, but I might be wrong. Don't turn down any new offers, however.—H.

Dear Helen: I met my wife when she was on her hands and knees pulling weeds out of onions for 60 cents an hour. I took her out of farm labor and we had 10 good years before I started drinking. I realize now I'm an alcoholic. I've been in jail a lot and my driving license has been revoked. My wife says she doesn't know how she feels about me any more, and she and our beautiful daughters moved out.

I am so sorry for the things I've done and the misery I've put her through that the remorse is almost unbearable. I love her so much that I lie awake nights dreaming about the things I am going to do for her and the kids; but when I see her she isn't

One World Government for Survival

WASHINGTON (AP) - If tomorrow a nuclear war bathed every continent in bombs, the survivors would probably clamor for a one-world government as the best hope of ending war forever.

They wouldn't have dreamed of such a solution, or permitted it, before the bombs made it seem a necessity for survival.
Without compulsion mankind isn't likely soon to end the barriers between nations.

Since nationalism is only an extension of tribalism, and man is still primitive, he can't without compulsion stop thinking in tribal terms. The transition from "me first" to "me too" is a long way off.

No wonder then that neither President Johnson nor any of the Latin-American presidents at the summit meeting in Punta del Este, Uruguay, is apt to come up with solution for the special interests of them all.

The Latin Americans went into this meeting with feuds, disputes over borders, and insistence on trade

FRONTISPIECE—A figure out of the glamorous Old South is Margaret Sullivan, herself a Virginian, the star of Paramount's motion picture "So Red the Rose," from Stark Young's novel of the War Between the States. "So Red the Rose" was shown at the Saenger theater in Hope January 26 and 27, 1936, being sponsored on the latter day by the Pat Cleburne chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. In compiling The Star's Arkansas Centennial Edition The Editor recalled this particular scene from "So Red the Rose." The West Coast Studio of Paramount Productions, Inc., forwarded a large "still" photo and The Star had it engraved as the frontispiece of an historic newspaper.

Hope Star, in Its 37th Year, Salutes a Century for the Bear State!

This edition, a memorial to the oldest section of Arkansas—our own—aims to preserve the unwritten history of the southwestern counties.

All of them were once a part of the original Hempstead, which ran from the Little Missouri river, on the east, to the Indian Territory, on the west, and southward to the State of Louisiana.

The old Hempstead is gone, and gone are her stern-wheeled river packets and her coon-skinned pioneers.

Her romance still lingers—but the adventure and beauty of ancient days would eventually die if unsustained by the fact-record of written history.

To this generation, therefore, comes this authentic history of olden times in the very place where we now live.

It is fitting that we should do this on the Arkansas Centennial—1836-1936—for the original Hempstead county government was created 18 years before the state itself, in 1818, the oldest of all the counties.

The Star wishes to thank the people of Southwest Arkansas who so splendidly co-operated in preparing this edition—the historians who prepared authentic resumes from their vast files of county history—the men and women who loaned us pictures out of family albums for reproduction here—old citizens who recounted the legends of early beginnings of civilization along Red river—the advertisers who furnished the foundation for so great an array of news-pages—and finally, we wish to thank our own Star staff, half of whom got out the regular daily paper the last two months while the other half prepared the Centennial Edition.

Hope Star SPORTS

Orioles in Second Victory

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
About the only thing left over from last season that has disappointed the world champion Baltimore Orioles this year is the syrup for Jim Palmer's pancakes.

The unbeaten Orioles won their second straight game this season by crushing Minnesota 7-4 Thursday as Palmer hurled a four-hitter, but the superstitious right-hander probably would insist defeat was only a bottle of syrup away.

The syrup is a carry-over from last season—that was the problem—when Palmer began eating pancakes before his eight victories from last June 3. His only loss in that span came when his breakfast table was missing from his breakfast table that day. He finished with 16 triumphs, including one in the World Series. "I only had four (pancakes) today," the 21-year-old pitcher said after Thursday's triumph. Palmer said, "I had just poured some syrup which had been in the house since last fall. It had fermented, and I had to throw the pancakes away."

The California Angels and the Cleveland Indians also had an unusual problem, but neither could solve it. A power failure at Anaheim Stadium left them without lights and forced cancellation of their night contest that is expected to be rescheduled in June. Workmen tried in vain for an hour and six minutes to fix an overloaded transformer before the game was called off.

In the only other scheduled American League game, Boston's trouble—a fielding collapse—was more routine. The Red Sox made three errors in the fifth inning and the Chicago White Sox cultivated them for five runs and an 8-5 victory in Boston.

In the National League, San Francisco blanked Atlanta 2-0, Cincinnati stopped Houston 5-4, the New York Mets nudged Pittsburgh 3-2 and the Los Angeles-St. Louis and Philadelphia-Chicago Cubs games were rained out.

Palmer, who pitched only 11 innings in spring training because of a sore shoulder, was in command all the way except in the fourth inning when a double, single and sacrifice fly produced Minnesota's run.

Along with Palmer, Baltimore's top winner last season, Frank and Brooks Robinson also took up where they left off in 1966.

Frank, the league's Most Valuable Player last season, slammed his first two home runs of 1967 with none on in the first and third innings for a 2-0 lead off loser Dean Chance. Brooks, who teamed with Frank the first half of 1966 to slug the Orioles to a 13-game lead, matched an opening day homer with a solo clout Thursday for Baltimore's final run. Ron Hansen, who would like to forget 1966 when he was injured most of the season, followed the three Boston errors with a double that put Chicago ahead 5-3. Jerry Adair's two-run single wrapped up the inning. Don Buford drove in Chicago's first two runs, and Pete Adair homered for another. Boston had taken a 4-3 lead in the sixth inning on errors by Hansen and Adair and run-scoring hits by Rico Petrocelli and Mike Yan.

76ers Will Need Finest Defense

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The offensively powerful Philadelphia 76ers will need their finest defense here tonight against the San Francisco Warriors in the first game of a best-of-seven series to determine the National Basketball Association championship.

The high-scoring Western Division champs eliminated Los Angeles 3-0 and St. Louis 4-2 in their division playoffs. The Warriors averaged 126.2 points against the 76ers during the regular season and tallied a massive 145 to win their last meeting by 14 points.

The 76ers, for their part, showed a tremendous defensive effort in silencing the big guns of the Boston Celtics, ending the perennial champions' reign by a 4-1 landslide in the Eastern playoffs.

Some Philadelphia fans wondered if their team could get "up" for the San Francisco series.

Coach Alex Hannum, who was fired at the end of last season as the Warriors' coach, held a strategy meeting Thursday to make sure the winning attitude was still there.

"They (the Warriors) look for what I call the opportunity shot," Hannum said. "They break down the floor and try to fire it up before Wilt Chamberlain is in position to rebound. All the Warriors are good shooters and their offense is very much like Boston's."

The Warriors' punch comes from the steady eye of league scoring titlist Rick Barry, who averaged 35.8 against the 76ers, 6-1 center Nate Thurmond, who pulled down 136 rebounds in the nine-game season series, and averaged 132 points.

Chamberlain pulled down 233 rebounds against the Warriors and scored 20.7 points per game. Although the 76ers won 7 out of 9 during the regular season, Warriors Coach Bill Sharman says all the games were close and that his team wasn't over-matched.

Canadiens Win Way to the Finals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It will be the Montreal Canadiens against the survivor of the Toronto-Chicago semifinal series for the Stanley Cup.

The Canadiens, winners of the National Hockey League's prized post-season playoff trophy in each of the last two years, advanced to the finals by completing a four-game sweep of the New York Rangers 2-1 Thursday night.

Chicago, the NHL regular season champions, tied the best-of-7 series against Toronto at 2-2, beating the Maple Leafs 4-3 in Thursday's other game.

John Ferguson, who scored eight of his 20 regular season goals against the Rangers and three more in the four-game playoff series, was the hero for the Canadiens. He swept a loose puck into a gaping New York net after 6½ minutes of sudden-death overtime.

New York goalie Ed Giacomin had stopped the initial shot, sliding out of the net. But he lost control of the puck and Ferguson found it at his feet.

He swiped at it once, missed and then swung again, sweeping it into the net.

"I couldn't believe the puck was there," he said later. "That's why it took me so long to put it in the net."

Giacomin said he thought he had the rubber in his glove. "It hit in the webbing," the New York goalie said. "Then I moved away and saw it laying there."

Eric Nesterenko and Bobby Hull scored the third-period goals that carried the Black Hawks to their victory over Toronto.

Both teams scored twice in the first period before Nesterenko broke the deadlock and Hull added an insurance goal. Chicago needed it when Mike Walton pulled the Leafs within one late in the period, but the Hawks hung on.

Minor Baseball Leagues Are Really Growing

By ERIC PREWITT
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

The least publicized of baseball's recent changes has been the growth of the minor leagues.

Anyone who predicted four years ago that the minor leagues were ready to expand probably would have been put away with the guy who predicted the New York Yankees were three years away from a last-place finish.

In 1963 the minors comprised 18 leagues with 130 teams, and attendance was under 10 million. All the figures represented low-water marks at the end of a steady skid begun in 1950. In 1949 the minors' 59 leagues had 448 teams and attendance totaled 41 million.

But the line-up for the 1967 season—opening today in three leagues and already under way in the three leagues in Mexico—has 141 teams operating in 19 leagues. The minors are aiming for their fourth straight year over the 10-million mark in attendance.

Phil Piton, president of the minor leagues with headquarters in Columbus, says the main reason for the leveling off is that "we are at an irreducible minimum for player development."

Major league expansion has helped kill off many minor league teams, but the new teams also had to establish farm systems to compete with the established clubs, Piton explains.

The Pacific Coast, Texas and Carolina leagues were to open play today, and seven more open before the end of the month.

Martin, a star at the University of Texas and at Minneapolis and St. Louis in the National Basketball Association, declined to reveal the length of the contract or the salary terms.

The Houston Basketball Corp., owners of the new club, announced Martin's selection at a news conference.

The team will play its 40 home games in the Sam Houston Coliseum with the regular season to begin in mid-October. The team has no nickname but a contest will be held in the near future in which the public will choose the name.

Slater Martin, former college basketball star, was named to the positions Thursday.

Perry Back in Form, Giants Win

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Gaylord Perry was scared of one batter, but it looks as if National League hitters may be spending another season worrying about Gaylord Perry.

A 21-game winner last season, the San Francisco pitcher allowed Atlanta just four hits in his 1967 debut Thursday night as the Giants rode homers by Willie Mays and Willie McCovey to a 2-0 triumph over the Braves.

Perry didn't pitch more than seven innings at a stretch during the exhibition season and when the ninth inning rolled around Thursday, the tall right-hander found himself with a man on base and the tying run at the plate. The tying run's name was Hank Aaron.

"I was scared to death when Hank came up," Perry related later in the dressing room. "He's the toughest out in the league."

But Aaron became Perry's fourth strikeout victim and two fly balls later the game was over.

Mays' home run, the 543rd of his career, came in the first inning off Tony Cloninger, who also gave up McCovey's shot in the third and took the defeat.

The game was Atlanta's home opener and was played before 33,225 fans.

Elsewhere in the National League, Cincinnati edged Houston 5-4 and New York nipped Pittsburgh 3-2. Philadelphia at Chicago and Los Angeles at St. Louis were rained out.

In the only American League game scheduled, Baltimore crushed Minnesota 7-1, Chicago downed Boston 8-5 and Cleveland at California was called because of a power failure at Anaheim Stadium.

Deron Johnson's three runs batted in, two coming on a home run in the fifth inning, provided the Reds with their margin of victory. Milt Pappas, with relief help from Gerry Arigo and Ted Abernathy, was the winning pitcher.

Tony Perez' homer in the fourth inning off loser Dave Giusti broke a 1-1 tie and set the stage for Johnson's big blast. Eddie Mathews and Bob Aspromonte drove in runs for Houston in the sixth and Jim Landis doubled in another score in the seventh, driving Pappas from the mound.

Chuck Hiller's pinch double in the eighth inning drove in the winning run for the Mets. Jerry Buchek started the inning with a single and moved to second on Jerry Grote's sacrifice. Hiller then doubled to center off Vern Law, who previously had beaten the Mets seven straight times.

Maury Wills and Roberto Clemente drove in the Pirates' entry in the newly formed runs with singles off rookie New American Basketball Association pitcher Tom Seaver. Tom has a head coach and general manager today although in a tight situation in the sixth the team itself has no official with one out and two on, but got name.

5 Jammed at Top in Vegas Play

Associated Press Sports

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Fourteen golf professionals, including some fellows named Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and new Masters champion Gary Brewer, were jammed within a spread of five strokes as play resumed today in the second round of the $100,000 Tournament of Champions.

Ambitious Frank Beard of Louisville, Ky., who wrapped out a six-under-par 65 Thursday led the field, but his margin was tenuous at this stage, with 54 holes to go.

Beard's 65 established a competitive course record. This is not too significant, however, because this is the first time a major tournament has ever been played on the Stardust course, aside from the Ladies PGA.

For the past 14 years, the Tournament of Champions has been played at the neighboring Desert Inn Country Club, a longer-par-72 affair. Two strokes back of the 27-year-old Beard were Doug Sanders, Don January and Brewer. Three shots away at 68 were Palmer, Nicklaus, Bobby Nichols, Dan Sikes and George Archer.

Golf Meet in Vegas on Channel 3

KTBS, TV, Television Three, will carry the $100,000 Tournament of Champions, Saturday, April 15 and Sunday, April 16th, 3 to 4 p.m. Live and in color from Las Vegas, Nevada, the tourney will feature competition between golfers' greats.

The Tournament of Champions, which has been won by either Jack Nicklaus or Arnold Palmer the last five years, is unique competition in its makeup. Only tournament winners from the last 52 weeks will compete, leaving a rather small field to compete for the $100,000 purse and $20,000 first prize. A total of 25 pros had qualified through the last tournament in March, the Pensacola Open.

Arnold Palmer, last year's winner, and Gary Brewer, the man he defeated, are among the qualifiers. Also in the field are Billy Casper, Jack Nicklaus, Doug Sanders, Al Geiberger, Bob Goalby and Art Wall, Jr.

Upon completion of this phase of the project, $3,548.00 will have been spent in materials alone, with another couple of thousand additional labor provided by the various City departments. Another $2,300.00 is needed to wrap the project up. This is needed for building a press box and concession stand.

To date, the Hope Kiwanis Club has financed the entire operation, pledging $3,000.00 toward this improvement project. This is a big chunk to bite off and raising this kind of money takes a lot of determination and a lot of hard work. So attend the Kiwanis Minstrel. You get your money's worth in so many ways.

Willie Just Happy With No. 2 Spot

By RON SPEER

Associated Press Sports Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Willie Mays says he's happy to be only No. 2 in the all-time home run race, but the San Francisco center fielder wasted little time renewing his bid for the top spot.

Wondrous Willie slammed his first home run of the season Thursday night in his first time at bat against the Atlanta Braves, and that was all the Giants needed although Willie McCovey added an insurance homer in the fourth for a 2-0 victory.

Was Mays excited about getting his first blast of the year? "Man, I'm happy every time I get one," Mays said after hitting the 543rd homer of his big-league career.

"But I never think about passing Babe Ruth in home runs," Mays said. "I'm honored to be No. 2."

"Being second isn't bad at all when the guy ahead of you is The Babe," he added.

Mays, who is 35, trails only Ruth in homers. The famed Yankee hit 714 in his career, but Mays indicated he believes he has a chance to overtake him.

"If I get close—say in five years—then I'd have to give it a go," Mays said. "But I don't set goals for myself. I just want to continue playing as long as I'm helping this club and not embarrassing myself."

The only ones Mays embarrassed Thursday night were the Braves, who lost their third straight game when they were unable to come up with a run.

The Braves, considered one of baseball's hardest-hitting clubs, managed only four hits off the Giants' Gaylord Perry, and two of them trickled off third baseman Jim Hart's glove.

Foremost among Mays' challengers was 21-year-old Bob Stanton, of Australia. Stanton authored a 32-34-66 round to trail by one shot.

In third place at 67, two shots off the lead, were Gene Briggs, club pro at Nashville, N.C., and Babe Hickey, who came up with 10 one-putt greens.

Above shot of K-Park, as the priority phase of remodeling nears completion, shows new dugouts, 90 percent complete, backstop and backstop extension uprights, grandstand canopy frame and new bleachers, that will be covered, with press box directly above.

The field now faces the Southwest rather than West-Northwest, so that the afternoon sun will not blind either the batter nor the fielders. The backstop and extension will reach from the outfield end of one dugout completely around behind home plate to the same point on the opposite dugout. A 4' overhang will top the inside 90' of the backstop and extension.

Over 80 yards of fill dirt has been added to the playing field in order to raise the center of the diamond to allow drainage in all directions. The field was completely resodded last fall, with 14 tons of chicken litter and 600 lbs. of commercial fertilizer being applied during the process.

The City Electric Department has installed a completely new lighting system with all lights spotted exactly as recommended by a lighting engineer. The new lighting will provide 20 footcandles in the infield and 15 footcandles in the outfield. This is above par lighting as recommended by the highest standards for Little League Baseball, Inc.

Fencing will be installed in about one week and when completed, the park will have an enclosed spectator area, a bullpen or warm-up area for each team and a playing field area.

Upon completion of this phase of the project, $3,548.00 will have been spent in materials alone, with another couple of thousand additional labor provided by the various City departments. Another $2,300.00 is needed to wrap the project up. This is needed for building a press box and concession stand.

Lowe Heads the Azalea Tournament

By KEN ALYTA

Associated Press Sports Writer
WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — George Lowe, putting instructor to many golf greats, surveyed the scoreboard at the Azalea Open Golf Tournament and, borrowing a race track expression, allowed as how the "claimers" were putting on a good race.

The "stake horses" were out in Las Vegas, Nev., for the $100,000 Tournament of Champions, leaving the $35,000 Azalea purse for the lean and hungry swiftness to scramble for.

And one of the leanest and hungriest of the lot, Larry Mowry, was the one-stroke leader as the second round of the four-day 19th annual coastal North Carolina fixture began today.

LEGAL NOTICE
NOTICE OF SPECIAL ELECTION Notice is hereby given that a special election will be held in Hempstead County, Arkansas on the 16th day of May, 1967, at which election there will be submitted to the electors the question of issuing Hempstead County, Arkansas General Obligation Industrial Development Bonds under the provisions of Amendment No. 49 to the Constitution of the State of Arkansas in the principal amount of not to exceed $210,000 (called "bonds") for the purpose of furnishing the permanent financing of the cost of developing industry. The bonds will be dated June 1, 1967, interest thereon will be payable June 1 and December 1 of each year, commencing December 1, 1967, at a rate or rates to be hereafter determined, and the bonds will mature annually on June 1 in each of the years 1970 to 1987, inclusive, but will be callable for payment prior to maturity upon such terms as shall be specified in the Order of the County Court authorizing their issuance. The particular industrial project will consist of acquiring land and constructing and equipping a manufacturing building (called "Project") to be leased to and operated by Hope Wire Products, Incorporated, an Arkansas corporation (Called "Hope Wire"). Hope Wire presently conducts manufacturing operations in the County which have developed to the point that arrangements have been made to establish an enlarged industrial operation in the County. If the electors approve the issuance of the bonds, the proceeds of the sale thereof will be used for the Project costs, expenses and expenditures incidental thereto and expenses incurred by the County in authorizing and issuing the bonds. The bonds will be general obligations of the County secured by a pledge of the full faith, credit, and taxing power of the County including particularly a one and one-half (1 1/2) mill special tax to be levied on the dollar of the assessed valuation of all taxable real and personal property in the County and to be collected, unless collection is suspended, annually until the principal of and interest on the bonds is paid in full or provision made therefor. In this regard, the County may apply the lease rentals and any other revenues derived from the Project to the payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds and provision will be made in the Order authorizing the issuance of the bonds for the suspension of the collection of the tax on an annual basis with the conditions of said suspension to be set forth in the authorizing Order; provided, however, the bonds will not be secured by a lien on or security interest in the Project and will not be secured by a lien on or a pledge of lease rentals or other Project revenues. The bonds will be sold at public sale as required by Amendment No. 49 and at the option of the County, may be sold with the privilege of conversion. Only qualified electors of Hempstead County, Arkansas will have the right to vote and the electors may vote either for or against the bonds. The election will be held between the hours of 8:00 o'clock a.m. and 7:30 o'clock p.m. at the following polling places in

Don't Smoke Around Flammable Paint
If you are doing a paint job inside your house as part of Spring Clean-Up, the American Insurance Association offers these suggestions to insure fire safety:
• Keep all paint cans closed tightly except those with which you are working.
• Keep containers of turpentine or other flammable paint thinners closed tightly except when pouring from the container.
• Old paint and oily rags should be discarded outside.
• Never smoke when you are using a paint with a flammable base.
• When painting a room, always keep a window or two open part way so that flammable vapors are not allowed to accumulate. Such ventilation also will remove toxic vapors you might breathe in.

Who Gets Credit Is Big Question

Bill was in with the queen. Bill thought awhile. Normally the play of the diamond king would show a doubleton but in that case South would hold five diamonds and only three clubs and would have opened the bidding with a diamond so Bill decided that Sally held two more diamonds. In that case one of those two diamonds had to be the ten spot. Bill played his deuce of diamonds and Sally was in with the ten.

Now it was Sally's turn to huddle. Did Bill hold two more diamonds? She decided that if he did he would have won the first heart with the king, not the queen. Sally led her deuce of hearts. South rose with the ace, led a club to dummy's king, cashed the jack of spades and his three high clubs and conceded the last two tricks to Bill's jack of diamonds and king of hearts. South was down one.

Now the answer to the question: Both deserve equal credit because it was a partnership operation.

Here is a new type of problem. West was Col. Bill Christian, now in Vietnam. East was Sally Johnson of Westport, Conn. They co-operated to produce one of the most brilliant defenses we have ever seen. The problem is which, if either, should get the lion's share of the credit? Sally started proceedings by placing her king of diamonds on her partner's queen. If South had ducked he would have made the contract but South can't really be blamed for taking that first diamond. The game was duplicate and he was going out for a lot of tricks.

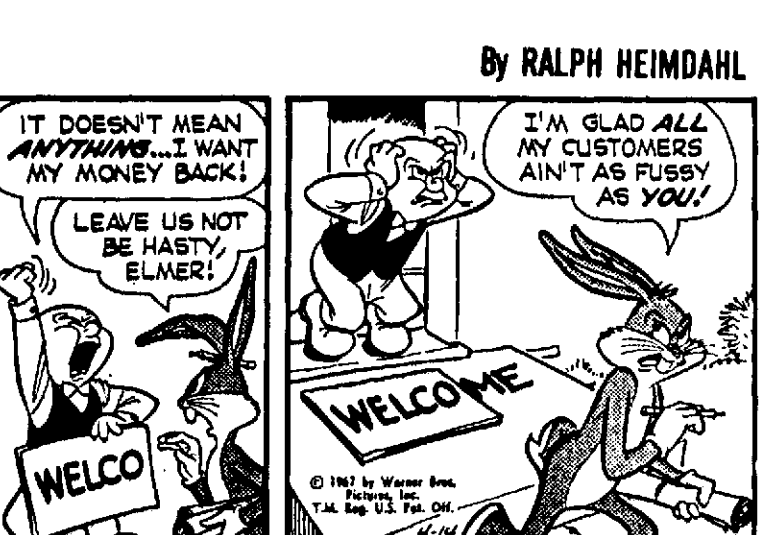

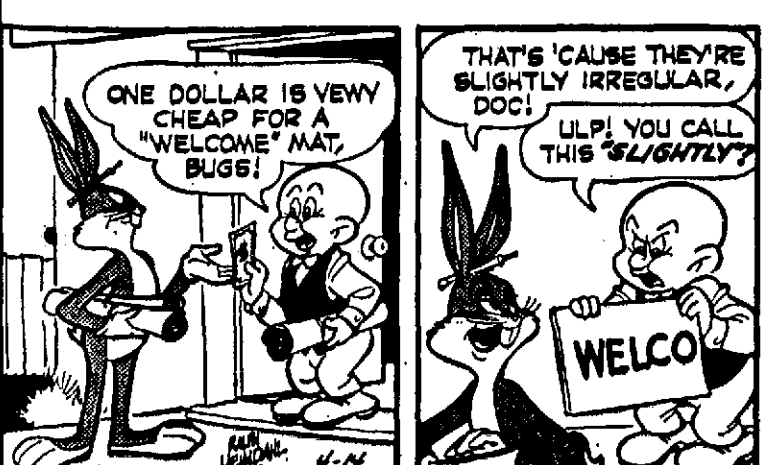

South played the ace of spades and continued with a spade to dummy's queen and Sally's king.

Sally returned the five of hearts. South ducked and

Candidates for Derby to Meet

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Only two of the leading candidates for the May 6 running of the Kentucky Derby will be missing Saturday when 14 or more 3-year-olds hook up in two races which could go a long way toward separating the wheat from the chaff.
Numerically, the one mile of the $50,000-added Gotham at Aqueduct is the most important. It figures to attract 10 or 11, including Damascus, the Derby future book choice, and Dr. Fager, winner of four of his five starts last year but unraced this year.

But the seven furlongs of the $7,000 Spendthrift at Keeneland looms mighty big in pre-Derby calculations because the probable field of four includes 1966 2-year-old champ Successor.

The son of Bold Ruler must prove himself, says Trainer Eddie Neely, if he is to stay in Kentucky for America's No. 1 horse race, in his 3-year-old debut March 13. Successor was a badly beaten fourth in the Swift at Aqueduct.

Absent from Saturday's races will be In Reality, Florida Derby winner, and Reflected Glory, first in the Flamingo.

After Saturday's races, only two major preps remain for the Derby. They are the $100,000-added Wood Memorial at Aqueduct next Saturday and the $25,000-added Blue Grass at Keeneland April 27.

Also the $75,000-added California Derby at Golden Gate Fields could be the deciding factor on Western representation in the Run for the Roses at Churchill Downs. All three are at 1 1/2 miles.

In addition to Damascus and Dr. Fager, the probable Gotham field includes Bold Monarch, a stablemate of Successor; Reason to Hall; Gaylord's Feather, running mate of Dr. Fager; Puntador; Sun Gala and He-ho's Bullet.

Reflected Glory, winner of three Florida stakes, was pulled out of the race Thursday by trainer Hirsch Jacobs when he turned up with sore shins after a workout. Jacobs said the colt's next start would be in the Wood. Neely also said Disciplinarian would start if the track comes up muddy.

The Spendthrift also will see Ruken, winner of the Santa Anita Derby, in action with Ala Ram attempting to prove his Derby caliber after a van trip from Sunland Park in New Mexico.

Pimlico also will feature a 1 1/2-mile race for 3-year-olds. It is for Maryland-breds only. The Survivor, worth $28,750, has eight probable starters headed by Misty Cloud and Gala Performance, who have split four of the previous races this year for Maryland-breds. They'll carry 119 pounds each along with Dawn Glory, Puerto Rican champion and Florida seasoner. Gordorigo is the highweight under 122 pounds.

YOU'VE GOT THEM NOW
WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — When Paul Land and Bill Binter, employees at an apartment house, were told two white geese had escaped from a private lake at the apartments they went after the fleeing birds.
After much trouble with traffic on nearby streets they rounded up two geese and put them in the lake, then reported the event to their boss.
"What white geese?" asked the boss. "We don't have any white geese."
Even so, the geese remained at the lake unless and until an owner could be found.

British Labor Party Shaken by Losses

By RONALD THOMSON
LONDON (AP) — Britain's ruling labor party was shaken today by its worst election defeat in years, the loss of the London County government after 33 years in control. And the opposition Conservatives were riding high in other county elections all across England and Wales.
The local setbacks had no effect on Prime Minister Harold Wilson's large majority in the House of Commons or Labor's hold on the national government. But there was general agreement the landslide in the capital and much of the anti-Labor vote elsewhere resulted from discontent with Wilson's policies, particularly the wage freeze and credit squeeze to protect the pound sterling.
The Conservatives won by a landslide in the London voting Thursday, leaving the Laborites shocked and despondent.

Restrictions on Navy Guns in Vietnam

By BOB HORTON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy bombardment of North Vietnam's coast is restricted by orders from Washington to the lower half of the country, Pentagon sources said today.
U.S. ships engaged in shore bombardment authorized Feb. 27 are prohibited from shelling Communist targets north of the 20th Parallel, sources said.
This keeps naval fire at least 60 miles from North Vietnam's key port of Haiphong, major point of entry for Soviet and Communist Chinese shipments of war goods.
Other administration restrictions prevent Air Force and Navy planes from bombing MIG fields, zones circling Hanoi and Haiphong, and a buffer area along the North Vietnam-China border.

Although the Joint Chiefs of Staff recommended it months ago, the administration has resisted pressure to knock out or blockade Haiphong, fearing such a move might bring greater participation in the war by the Soviet Union or Red China.

Unable to seal off Haiphong, the chiefs urged last November greater use of Navy power to help curb the sea and coastal flow of supplies to Communist troops in South Vietnam.

The Navy launched patrols last fall to cut off supply-laden barges and junks.
In February the Navy was authorized to bombard the coast and mine southern waterways in North Vietnam. Marine and army artillery were permitted to fire across the so-called demilitarized zone.

In the past 45 days the Navy cruiser Canberra and as many as five destroyers at once have roamed up and down about 250 miles of North Vietnam coastline above the demilitarized zone. Usually they work in pairs.
Navy spokesmen say the 7th Fleet vessels effectively have blasted scores of Communist supply craft, barges, ferries, radar sites, radio towers, highway checkpoints, storage areas, transshipment facilities, surface-to-air missile batteries and Communist shore defenses.

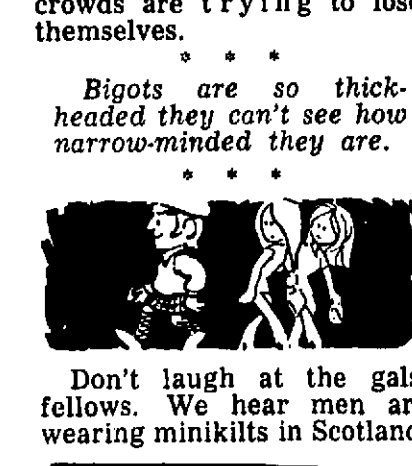

Spokesmen say the bombardment has all but stopped the southward movement of war material down the coast.
The Pentagon declined to say how extensive the bombardment is, but sources place the volume at more than 1,000 rounds a day.
Enemy gun batteries have fired on U.S. ships on several occasions. The nearest they came to sinking one was March 18 when the destroyer USS Stoddard suffered a 10-inch by 18-inch hole above the water line.

It's legal if a listening device can be used without trespass.
New York, Maryland, Massachusetts, Nevada and Oregon presently have laws permitting officials to eavesdrop if they obtain court permission.
The court is looking into the New York law — and by implication the others — in reviewing the 1964 conviction of Ralph Berger, a Chicago public relations man, for conspiring to bribe the chairman of the state liquor authority. Berger was sentenced to a year in prison.
In 1962, a New York judge, Joseph A. Sarafite, gave the Manhattan district attorney's office permission "to overhear and record by any instrument" conversations in two offices over a four-month period.
Berger's attorney, Joseph E. Brill of New York City, described the bugging at the hearing. He said a microphone was concealed in a telephone box and the conversations carried through wires to a "listening post" in another building where they were recorded.
H. Richard Uviller, an assistant New York county district attorney, argued police eavesdropping — when authorized by a judge who has heard testimony similar to what he would consider before issuing a search warrant — does not conflict with the Constitution.
The prosecutor maintained the conversations "were in furtherance of a conspiracy" and thus are the kinds of "fruits of crimes" the Supreme Court has said in the past may be used as evidence at trial.
"All efforts to enforce laws involve some intrusion," Uviller said. He likened eavesdropping to tailing a suspect: "It is by its nature secret."

Arkansas to Open League Play Tonight
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Headlined by a clash of the pennant winner and the play-off winner — Arkansas and Austin — the Texas League launches its 140-game schedule tonight.
Arkansas goes to Austin, Dallas-Fort Worth to Amarillo and Albuquerque to El Paso in the opening games.
Austin anticipates probably its biggest start attendance wise with 10,000 tickets already sold. They can be used either Friday or Saturday nights and officials think there will be more than 3,000 out for the opener.
President Hugh Finnerty expressed optimism as the league prepared to open the season. He is forecasting over 700,000 attendance.
These new managers make their debuts — Duke Snider, the former Brooklyn Dodgers outfield star, at Albuquerque; Jo Jo White, former major leaguer, at Dallas-Fort Worth, and Rocky Bridges, also a big league ex, at El Paso.
Vern Rapp, who piloted Arkansas to first place in the regular season, returns to the Travelers. Buddy Hancien is back with Amarillo and Hubb Kittle, who sent Austin to the playoff title, again is directing the Braves.
Austin will start Jim Britton, a righthander who had a 3-5 record with Richmond last season, while Arkansas goes with Joe DiFabio, 11-3 with Cedar Rapids, also a righthander.

400 Men Condemned to Die No Executions in Most States in Years

By MARTHA COLE
WASHINGTON (AP) — About 400 men wait today in the death rows of state prisons, condemned to die for a crime.
Among them is Lester E. Morford II in Nevada, scheduled to die April 19 for slaying a bridegroom. Among them was Aaron Mitchell executed in California Wednesday for killing a policeman.
The number of executions in the United States has declined steadily in recent years. There was only one last year, in Oklahoma. Mitchell was the first this year.
The big majority of states have carried out no executions for years.
Many condemned men have gotten new chances because of recent court decisions prescribing new rules on the rights of criminals. Some governors have commuted sentences to life, and some have followed an undeclared moratorium on death by execution.
More state legislatures were discussing abolishing the death penalty this year than in previous years.
An Associated Press survey showed that bills to abolish capital punishment were introduced in at least 18 state legislatures. They have failed in eight of these states and are given little chance of approval in five more.
Bills still are considered alive in Illinois, Missouri, Ohio, Tennessee and Connecticut.
Just Wednesday, an Illinois House committee approved legislation calling for a six-year moratorium on the death penalty.
Just Wednesday, too, a California Senate committee killed a bill that would have abolished the death penalty in California, acting about two hours after Mitchell was executed.
Still awaiting legislative action in California is a proposal to submit repeal of the death penalty to a vote of the people.
In Georgia, Gov. Lester Maddox has said he is thinking about calling for a state referendum on abolition of the death penalty. In a referendum last November, Colorado voters approved continuing the state's gas chamber.
Thirteen states have abolished capital punishment, beginning with Rhode Island in 1852. The last were New York, Vermont, West Virginia and Iowa, in 1965. Alaska and Hawaii abolished it in 1957 shortly before becoming states. Others are Oregon, Michigan, North Dakota, Minnesota, Maine and Wisconsin.
Records of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons show that at the end of 1966, some 405 persons were under sentence of death, compared with 331 a year earlier.
The bureau started keeping such death records in 1930, when 155 persons were executed. The highest toll was 199 in 1935. There were 47 in 1962, 21 in 1963, 15 in 1964, 7 in 1965 and 1 last year. The total since 1930 is 3,857.

Request to Reopen Dodd Hearings
By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Ethics Committee sources indicated today that evidence gathered against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd is being reviewed in response to a request for reopening of committee hearings.
The appeal for additional public hearings into misconduct charges against Dodd was made by four ex-employees of the Connecticut Democrat. All four admittedly rifled Dodd's files to disclose what they said was serious wrongdoing.
Their letter to the bipartisan committee said areas not covered in hearings last summer and last month "constitute the heart of the Dodd case."
Although the committee is ready to work on a report to the Senate of its findings and recommendations, an authoritative source said that Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., never foreclosed the possibility of additional hearings.
Stennis is expected to issue a statement on behalf of the committee, although this was somewhat up in the air Thursday night after he and other committee members conferred informally.
One committee member told a reporter he wanted to take another look at the evidence in the light of the ex-employees' letter.
The committee staff was instructed, it was learned, to review the charges on which new hearings were requested.
Stennis and the committee's vice chairman, Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, said the charges already have been looked into during the year-old investigation.
"Some of these things may be incapable of proof," Bennett told a reporter. He asked what would be the point of holding hearings on them if substantial evidence were not available.
At the outset of its investigation, the committee said it would rely on evidence it developed independently of "dozens" of memos which Dodd has protested were stolen from his office by employees he accused of betraying him.
Bennett said Thursday the committee had been advised by counsel it could not use material in documents taken from the senator's files by his ex-employees.
"They were tainted because they were stolen," he said.

Arkansas to Open League Play Tonight

Headlined by a clash of the pennant winner and the play-off winner — Arkansas and Austin — the Texas League launches its 140-game schedule tonight.
Arkansas goes to Austin, Dallas-Fort Worth to Amarillo and Albuquerque to El Paso in the opening games.
Austin anticipates probably its biggest start attendance wise with 10,000 tickets already sold. They can be used either Friday or Saturday nights and officials think there will be more than 3,000 out for the opener.
President Hugh Finnerty expressed optimism as the league prepared to open the season. He is forecasting over 700,000 attendance.
These new managers make their debuts — Duke Snider, the former Brooklyn Dodgers outfield star, at Albuquerque; Jo Jo White, former major leaguer, at Dallas-Fort Worth, and Rocky Bridges, also a big league ex, at El Paso.
Vern Rapp, who piloted Arkansas to first place in the regular season, returns to the Travelers. Buddy Hancien is back with Amarillo and Hubb Kittle, who sent Austin to the playoff title, again is directing the Braves.
Austin will start Jim Britton, a righthander who had a 3-5 record with Richmond last season, while Arkansas goes with Joe DiFabio, 11-3 with Cedar Rapids, also a righthander.

400 Men Condemned to Die No Executions in Most States in Years

By MARTHA COLE
WASHINGTON (AP) — About 400 men wait today in the death rows of state prisons, condemned to die for a crime.
Among them is Lester E. Morford II in Nevada, scheduled to die April 19 for slaying a bridegroom. Among them was Aaron Mitchell executed in California Wednesday for killing a policeman.
The number of executions in the United States has declined steadily in recent years. There was only one last year, in Oklahoma. Mitchell was the first this year.
The big majority of states have carried out no executions for years.
Many condemned men have gotten new chances because of recent court decisions prescribing new rules on the rights of criminals. Some governors have commuted sentences to life, and some have followed an undeclared moratorium on death by execution.
More state legislatures were discussing abolishing the death penalty this year than in previous years.
An Associated Press survey showed that bills to abolish capital punishment were introduced in at least 18 state legislatures. They have failed in eight of these states and are given little chance of approval in five more.
Bills still are considered alive in Illinois, Missouri, Ohio, Tennessee and Connecticut.
Just Wednesday, an Illinois House committee approved legislation calling for a six-year moratorium on the death penalty.
Just Wednesday, too, a California Senate committee killed a bill that would have abolished the death penalty in California, acting about two hours after Mitchell was executed.
Still awaiting legislative action in California is a proposal to submit repeal of the death penalty to a vote of the people.
In Georgia, Gov. Lester Maddox has said he is thinking about calling for a state referendum on abolition of the death penalty. In a referendum last November, Colorado voters approved continuing the state's gas chamber.
Thirteen states have abolished capital punishment, beginning with Rhode Island in 1852. The last were New York, Vermont, West Virginia and Iowa, in 1965. Alaska and Hawaii abolished it in 1957 shortly before becoming states. Others are Oregon, Michigan, North Dakota, Minnesota, Maine and Wisconsin.
Records of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons show that at the end of 1966, some 405 persons were under sentence of death, compared with 331 a year earlier.
The bureau started keeping such death records in 1930, when 155 persons were executed. The highest toll was 199 in 1935. There were 47 in 1962, 21 in

A Warm Letter
Color Prospects

If you had glanced at the calendar you might have known why this column was missing from yesterday's edition. Income tax return . . . I was right in the middle of typing it out when I should have been doing the daily ed stint . . . but the calendar said this was the time of year when, as between the Government and private property, the Government comes first.

Because April 15 falls on Saturday this year's filing deadline is for returns postmarked not later than Monday, April 17. I got mine off yesterday afternoon, any citizen being crazy to delay working on so complicated a form until the last minute.

They've made some changes in this year's 1040 Form, not particularly important, but any change infuriates a citizen who makes his own return. It's a job every taxpayer should be required to do personally, if only to give him a better understanding of the mountain of time-consuming paper work that an idle Government has thrust upon the private worker.

Editor The Star: As you know, you are making history in the Arkansas newspaper business.

Your edition of Feb. 15 will go down as one of the significant steps forward in the newspaper publishing business in our state.

Long after people have forgotten the details and fail to remember your beautiful picture of apple blossoms and little children, they will remember that you and the Hope Star boldly stepped ahead of the field by installing modern color production equipment.

We have pleaded with many of our newspaper friends for years to take this step. We believe that because of your decision we will see many more do so in the next few years.

You are making a contribution not only to the improvement of your newspaper, but to building your community; because a community is, in effect, reflected in the pages of its daily or weekly journal. With best personal regards,

ROBERT J. WIMBERLEY

Thanks for a nice letter. And what Mr. Wimberley says is true of this and every other industry: As one unit pioneers and advances, the entire industry moves forward.

Hope Star has published three process color picture productions: Hog-Killing Time in Arkansas Jan. 28; Spring in Arkansas Feb. 15; and Color Salute to the 66th General Assembly March 29. The first two were O.K., but the third suffered from a registration fault — an oversight by a visiting color consultant in failing to "punch" the four color negatives so they could be aligned on the press plates in perfect registration.

But from here on we are strictly on our own. Several new four-color productions are under way, the current one being two six-column pictures of the Hot Springs horse races. We were delayed by technical tests, finally ran out of the special film this operation requires, and our replacement supply was tied up on a strike-bound Strickland truck from Eastman Kodak's Dallas office. But the shipment came in this morning and work has resumed.

MEMPHIS (AP) — Work on the new $50 million interstate bridge across the Mississippi River here is scheduled to begin next week.

A spokesman said work would start Monday if the needed material and equipment can be moved into place by then.

Start Cleanup

Clean-up crews and repairmen will begin the tedious task today of clearing streets of debris and repairing snapped power lines after tornadoes and strong winds battered areas of Arkansas Thursday.

Arkansas Power and Light Co. crews faced repair work in at least six Arkansas cities although some of the damage had been corrected by late Thursday. Damage was expected to run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Paragould, in Greene County, was the last city to report damages Thursday night before the U. S. Weather Bureau issued an all clear report for the state.

The weather bureau reported that a tornado touched down at Nashville, another near DeWitt and said that there was a possibility there had been a tornado near El Dorado.

The strong winds prompted numerous reports of tornado sightings by residents. Tornado-like winds left communications disrupted, power lines down and the streets filled with debris at the Banks community near Warren, at Crosssett, Paragould, Stuttgart and Mountain Home.

Fallings limbs caused by the tornado at Nashville broke the leg of Mrs. Pearl Morris, 76, who was in her backyard at the time. Roofs of at least 10 houses were damaged at Nashville.

Some minor injuries from flying debris were reported at Paragould where strong winds whipped through the city about 6:30 p.m. Thursday, tearing the roof and walls off an automobile parts store.

A resident said it looked as though the "building just exploded."

A wing of the Baldwin Elementary school at Paragould was about two-thirds destroyed. One city official said he saw "a tornado-like cloud" coming down about 6:34 p.m. Some 100 automobiles were damaged by falling trees and the downtown streets were littered with glass and tree limbs.

Records Not Denied GOP,
Says G&F

ROGERS, Ark. (AP) — Two Republicans were not denied access to records of the state Game and Fish Commission, a member of the commission said Thursday.

Newt Haley of Rogers said Bob Scott, an aide to Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, and Joe Gaspard, a GOP field secretary, were told that the records they wanted to see would be available to them "in only two or three days."

"Anyone seeking Game and Fish Commission records can get them from the state comptroller's office — they have identical records," Haley said.

Scott and Gaspard said they were denied access to the records, prompting criticism of the commission by Rockefeller. Haley said the records have not been closed to the public and that he feels certain the people of Arkansas feel that the commission has been doing a good job.

Trailways
Bus Lines
Are Struck

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Bus operators and terminal employees early today struck Continental Trailways in nine southern and midwestern states.

Picket lines were set up at the home office here and depots in the nine states. The strike affected about 350 drivers and 100 terminal workers.

Negotiations had continued throughout Thursday in an effort to avert the strike by the Amalgamated Transit Union.

R. W. McClendon, vice president and general manager of the company, and W. H. Cummings, president of Local 1534, issued statements regretting that no contract had been reached.

Soviet Ad Was Too Costly

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The Soviet newspaper Pravda was willing to accept the advertisement and Alaskan promoting the state's centennial almost had it blocked out.

Martin Schafer of Anchorage, director of the Alaska State Travel Service, said the ad was to read along these lines: "Come to the Alaska centennial and see what you sold for $7.2 million."

Then came the notice of Pravda's prices. The Moscow paper wanted $56 an inch for a travel ad. That compares with the $42 an inch charged by London's Daily Telegraph which has a circulation of 1.2 million.

Schafer, here on a promotion trip, said Alaska will just have to do without any Soviet tourists the ad might have attracted.

Favors Bonus to Retiring Teachers

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller has said that he would support in a special legislative session a bill that would give a bonus to "retiring" teachers.

He said he would veto a House bill which would allow a bonus payment for school teachers who are not returning next year.

Rockefeller said that Education Commissioner A. W. Ford had estimated that the bill would cost some $200,000 needed to pay the teachers their $500 raises and recommended that the bill be vetoed.

The governor made his remarks in a letter to Rep. R. E. Flanagan of Forrest City, sponsor of the House bill.

"I have come to the conclusion," Rockefeller wrote, "that I must veto House Bill 478, before doing so I wanted to write to you and give you an opportunity to discuss the matter further."

Finance Law
Vote Slap
at Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted — in a slap at President Johnson — to repeal the presidential election campaign financing law. But the measure's chief backer vowed today the fight isn't over.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., author of the law, told newsmen he considered the defeat "a small skirmish in a long war."

But Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., sponsor of the repeal move — which won 48 to 42 — said he's fully confident the law will be wiped off the books effective July 1.

The repeal move still faces House action.

Gore's repealer, an amendment tacked onto a pending administration tax bill, drew backing from 33 Republicans and 15 Democrats. Opposed were 42 Democrats but no Republicans.

A sometimes heated debate on the Gore rider included a sharp clash between Long and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

Kennedy argued the campaign financing plan was "a monster" that would let national party leaderships in Washington destroy state and local political organizations.

Long argued the plan would prevent the presidency from becoming a prize only the wealthy could capture. He inferred the wealthy New York senator might want to make the office a province of the rich.

"Some people," Long added, "are interested in practicing the power of great wealth."

Long declined to discuss his future strategy but said it was possible there would be further Senate action on the matter. He noted there were some absentees on the crucial roll call.

Earlier, the Louisiana declared he would try to get the House to reject the repeal rider in conference on the tax bill — already passed by the House — and failing that, would ask the President to veto it.

Johnson had endorsed the campaign financing plan in signing it into law last November. But he also is pushing for congressional approval of the tax bill, which would restore two major tax incentives for business — a 7 per cent investment credit on machinery and accelerated depreciation on income-producing buildings.

The existing law allows citizens to earmark $1 of their income taxes to support the major parties in presidential campaigns, with Democrats and Republicans splitting the revenues. It had been anticipated the law would raise $30 million for each party in 1968.

Gore insisted in offering his repealer that elimination of the financing plan would be the prelude to a sweeping reform of the election laws which has been considered in Congress for years but never passed.

Defense
Closes in Speck Case

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — The defense has ended its surprisingly brief testimony in the Richard Speck murder trial, and the case of the murdered eight nurses will go to a jury Saturday.

Public defender Gerald Getty called only 11 witnesses to rebut the state's contention that Speck, 25, strangled and stabbed the young women last July 14 in a townhouse on the South Side of Chicago.

The defense's final witnesses Thursday were a man and his wife whose testimony provided an alibi for Speck's whereabouts at the time of the murders.

Murrell Farmer, a bartender in a waterfront restaurant, told the court he saw the defendant twice July 13. The first time, Farmer said, was at 8 p.m.

"The next time I saw him, it was pretty close to midnight," Farmer said.

His wife Cardena said she saw Speck sometime after 11:30 p.m. "I served him a hamburger and a glass of ice water," Mrs. Farmer said she did not see Speck leave but she estimated the time of his departure at 12:30 a.m. July 14.

U.S. Justices Trying to Bring Death to Legal Eavesdropping

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The reaction of Supreme Court justices to arguments at a wiretap case hearing suggests the death knell may sound soon for legalized eavesdropping as it exists today.

"Star chamber proceedings" was the description Chief Justice Earl Warren gave to the way New York judges authorized such bugging.

"Legalized burglary" was the description Justice William J. Brennan Jr. gave to the way official eavesdroppers gained access to two Manhattan offices in 1962 to plant microphones and collect evidence against a Chicago public relations man.

"This could have happened to my house if I lived in New York," said Brennan. "Maybe I'm glad that I don't."

Hundreds of judges and thousands of policemen are involved in legalized eavesdropping, Warren said, "and not one of them is subjected to any supervision of the way he did it."

There was no indication at the two-hour hearing Thursday that a majority of the nine justices is likely to decide that New York's eavesdropping law can be squared with the U.S. Constitution.

Typical of the currently confused state of wiretapping law is that in 1928 the Supreme Court placed wiretapping outside the constitutional ban on illegal searches and seizures but in wiretap evidence was inadmissible in federal courts.

Similarly, the court has held on separate occasions that if a spike microphone penetrates a wall the bugging is illegal, but

Rules Judges
Can Hold
Other Jobs

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office ruled Thursday that county judges may hold additional jobs if they are not in conflict with their elected office.

The office also held that members of the executive committee of the Arkansas Constitutional Revision Study Commission are entitled to draw per diem of $25 and expenses for attending committee meetings.

In an opinion to Derrel Atkins, superintendent of schools at Tiller, the attorney general's office ruled that Arkansas school boards may not prevent an unwed mother from attending public schools if she is otherwise qualified.

The office also issued an opinion that Arkansas may ask extradition of a fugitive from another state who is charged with a misdemeanor crime in Arkansas.

4,000 U.S.
Troops Move
Into Battle

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command, in a major move to bolster the five northernmost provinces threatened by Communist infiltration and 35,000 North Vietnamese regulars, moved 4,000 battle-tested U.S. Army infantrymen into the area today.

The Army's 196th Light Infantry Brigade was flown in to reinforce U.S. Marines, South Vietnamese units and a brigade of Korean marines.

The transfer coincided with heavy fighting through paddyfields and coconut groves of the Mekong Delta between a crack force of 2,000 South Vietnamese, supported by U.S. and South Vietnamese planes, and elements of three hard-core Viet Cong battalions. The troops reported 230 of the enemy had been killed and their own losses were light.

The presence of the 196th Light Infantry will allow the movement of 4,000 U.S. Marines to the sensitive sector just below the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam.

About 400 flights of U.S. Air Force C130 transports were used to airlift the troops from war zone C near the Cambodian border to the area around Chu Lai, 340 miles northeast of Saigon. It is the first major Army unit to be deployed in the 1st Corps area to stay.

Military sources say the Communists have 35,000 troops in and around the demilitarized zone that straddles the 17th Parallel border and strong guerrilla forces scattered throughout the corps area.

No announcement was made of the new deployment of the U.S. Marines, whose force of 75,000 has been thinly stretched through the five provinces, along with the Korean brigade and two south Vietnamese divisions.

SAIGON (AP) — A crack force of 2,000 South Vietnamese, supported by U.S. and South Vietnamese planes, today reported killing 230 hard-core Communist guerrillas in a battle through the paddyfields and coconut trees of the Mekong Delta.

Vietnamese military headquarters said heavy fighting was continuing in Phong Dinh Province, 90 miles below Saigon, after more than 24 hours of battle.

One American helicopter was brought down and destroyed by Communist fire in the opening phases of the fight. Three U.S. crewmen were wounded.

Government casualties in the fighting were termed light.

U.S. Air Force Maj. Edward Seaman of Oxnard, Calif., who flew one of 88 support strikes Thursday, reported the guerrillas' battleline was covered with black smoke and dotted with the orange bursts of bombs.

American jets and South Vietnamese propeller-driven Skyraiders continued to pound the Red forces today.

Vietnamese headquarters said that elements of three hard-core guerrilla battalions — the 301st, 309th and 310th — had been identified in the fighting. This could amount to 1,500 men.

While the Vietnamese claimed that the Red units were encircled, other information available in Saigon indicated the fighting covered miles of ragged paddyfields and coconut trees broken by dikes, canals and wooded patches almost impossible to encircle with the forces available.

The South Vietnamese were pulling troops into the battle from several nearby operations

$8.6 Millions
